FAMILY LAW REFORM (CONSEQUENTIAL AMENDMENTS) BILL 1995

GENERAL OUTLINE

1. This Bill makes amendments to a number of Commonwealth Acts as a consequence of the enactment of the Family Law Reform Bill 1994. The Family Law Reform Bill 1994 makes substantial changes to the Family Law Act 1975, in particular, it repeals and substitutes Part VII which establishes the relationships between children and their parents. It seeks to change the approach taken by parents towards their children and emphasises the concept of parental responsibility for the care, welfare and development of their children rather than the current concepts of guardianship, custody and access which are typified by notions of ownership of children. The new approach also established rights in children for their care and development which are consistent with the principles of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. The new Part also places a greater emphasis on the non litigious resolution of issues affecting children by facilitating the development of parenting plans with the use of court parenting orders as a secondary approach.

2. A number of Acts administered by other portfolios have as their foundation or as a part of their foundation the outmoded concept which needs to be replaced. The Family Law Reform (Consequential Amendments) Act 1995 gives effect to the changes in terminology in other Commonwealth legislation. It will bring other Commonwealth legislation, such as the Social Security Act 1991 and the Passports Act 1938 in line with the reforms and facilitate the operation of the associated legislation applying the new concepts.

3. The changes being effected by this Bill do not change the substance or application of those other Acts.

4. The Bill will amend -

- (i) the Australian Citizenship Act 1948 to bring the terminology of that Act in line with the new concepts by changing the definition of the word "guardian" for the purposes of that Act to include people who have a parenting agreement or parenting orders under the new system.
- (ii) the Child Support Assessment Act 1988 to replace the word "custodian" and its variants with the word "carer" and its variants, and the word "access" with the word "contact". These amendments will maintain consistency and avoid potential confusion in the operation of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989, so the "eligible custodian" entitled to child support becomes the "eligible carer" entitled to child support.

- (iii) the Child Support (Registration and Collection) Act 1988 to omit the words "non-custodial", and include parenting plans in the definition of a maintenance agreement.
- (iv) the Childcare Rebate Act 1993 to bring the concepts and terminology related to the definitions of "parent" and "dependent child" into line with the new concepts and terminology in the Family Law Act 1975.
- (iv) the Migration Act 1958 to change the definition of the responsible parent for the purposes of that Act to bring it into line with the new concepts and terminology in the Family Law Act 1975.
- (v) the Passports Act 1938 to maintain consistency in terminology and avoid potential confusion in the operation of the Passports Act 1938, which makes substantial reference to the current Part VII of the Family Law Act 1975. In particular, section 5(5) of the Passports Act 1938 refers to the registration of overseas orders within the meaning of section 68 of Part VII of the Family Law Act 1975. Also sections 7A(2)(c)(ii)(B) of the Passports Act 1938 rely upon the terms "custody", "guardianship" and "access" as defined in the former legislation.
- (vi) the Social Security Act 1991 to make it consistent with the new concepts that are being introduced into the Family Law Act 1975. The amendments omit references to "rights" and "control" and replace them, as appropriate, with references to the new concept of parental responsibility for a child's day to day care, welfare and development and to new types of parenting orders that may be made under the Act.

the provisions of the Social Security Act 1991 which are amended include subsection 5(2) which deals with the definition of a dependent child who is under 16 years of age, and subsection 250(1) in relation to a sole parent pension child.

The amendments are not intended in any way, to result in any changes to the qualification for, or entitlement to, any social security payments.

FINANCIAL IMPACT STATEMENT

5. The proposed amendments will not have any significant financial impact.

NOTES ON CLAUSES

Clause 1 - Short title

6. This clause provides for the Act to be cited as the Family Law Reform (Consequential Amendments) Act 1995.

Clause 2 - Commencement

7. This clause provides that the Bill will commence concurrently with the Family Law Reform Bill 1994 when the new Part VII contained in that Bill are substituted into the Family Law Act 1975 (By section 31). Both Bills will commence on a day to be fixed by Proclamation.

Clause 3 - Amendment of Acts

8. Clause 3 provides that the Acts referred to in the Schedule are amended as set out in that Schedule.

SCHEDULE - AMENDMENT OF ACTS

Part 1 - Amendment of the Australian Citizenship Act 1948

9. Item 1 of the Schedule omits from subsection 5(1) of the Australian Citizenship Act 1948 the definition of responsible parent in subsection 5(1) and substitutes a new definition by reference to the concepts set out in new subsection 5(2).
10. Item 2 inserts new subsections 5(2) and 5(2A). New subsection 5(2) defines the meaning of responsible parent for the purposes of the Act. The new definition has regard to the new concepts under the Family Law Act for establishing the relationship between the child and the parent. New subsection 5(2A) ensures that terms used in new subsection 250(1) are consistent with the like terms in the Family Law Act 1975.

Part 2 - Amendment of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989

11. Item 3 omits "access to" and replaces it with "contact with" in section 5 of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989. Effectively the provisions of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989 remain the same, but these changes reflect the terminology introduced by the amendments to the Family Law Act 1975.

12. Item 4 omits from section 5 the definitions of "custodian entitled to child support", "eligible custodian", "shared custody child" and "substantial access".
13. Item 5 inserts in section 5 definitions of "carer entitled to child support", "eligible carer", "major contact", "shared care child" and "substantial contact". The new definitions reinsert the provisions of the definitions omitted by Item 4 taking account of the new terminology of the Family Law Act 1975.

21. Item 13 omits from the heading in Subdivision D of Division 2 of Part 5 the reference to "Custodial" and replaces it with "Carer".
22. Item 14 omits from section 43 the reference to "entitled custodian" and replaces it with "entitled carer".
23. Item 15 omits from paragraph 48(b) the reference to "Custodial" and replaces it with "Carer".
24. Item 16 omits from paragraph 48(da) the reference "to whom the parent has substantial access" and replaces it with "with whom the parent has substantial contact".
25. Item 17 omits from paragraph 48(e) the reference "to whom a parent has major access" and replaces it with "with whom a parent has major contact".

27. Item 19 omits from the heading to Subdivision G of Division 2 of Part 5 the reference to "custodians" and replaces it with "carers".
28. Item 20 substitutes new paragraph 54(1)(b) in identical terms other than with changed references from "custodian" to "carer", "custodians" to "carers", "custodian's" to "carer's" and "access" to "contact" wherever those terms are used.
29. Item 21 adds a note to section 81 to the effect that a parenting plan made under the Family Law Act 1975 may be a child support agreement.
30. Item 22 omits "child agreement" and replaces it with "parenting plan" in paragraph 84(7)(a).
31. Item 23 omits "custodian entitled to child support" and replaces it with "carer entitled to child support" in paragraph 93(1)(d).

33. Item 30 omits references to "custodians" and replaces it with references to "carers" in a number of provisions of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989.
34. Item 31 omits references to "custodian's" and replaces it with references to "carer's" in a number of provisions of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989.

35. Item 32 omits "custody" and replaces it with "care" in a number of provisions of the Child Support (Assessment) Act 1989.

Part 3 Amendment of the Child Support (Registration and Collection) Act 1988

36. Item 33 omits from paragraph 3(1)(b) the term "non-custodial" so that it removes the concept of custody from the objects of child support liability for the maintenance of children.
37. Item 34 adds to the definition of a maintenance agreement in subsection 4(1) a note to the foot of that definition which recognises that a parenting plan under the Family Law Act 1975 can satisfy that definition.

Part 4 - Amendments of the Childcare Rebate Act 1993

38. Item 35 amends paragraph 10(a), which is part of the definition of a parent for the purposes of the Act, by replacing the concept of care and control of the child with the concept of legal responsibility for day-to-day care, welfare and development.
39. Item 36 amends paragraph 10(b), which is the part of the definition of a parent for the purposes of the Act, by removing reference to control over a child.
40. Item 37 amends paragraph 11(1)(a), which is part of the definition of a dependent child for the purposes of the Act, by replacing the concept of care and control of the child with the concept of legal responsibility for day to day care, welfare and development.
41. Item 38 amends subparagraph 11(1)(b)(ii), which is part of the definition of a dependent child for the purposes of the Act, by removing reference to control over a child.

Part 5 - Amendment of the Migration Act 1958

42. Item 39 of Part 5 of the Schedule amends section 192 of the Migration Act 1958 by inserting a new subsection (8) which defines the meaning of the term "guardian" in paragraph 192(7)(b) to include a person who has a special purpose order, within the meaning of the Family Law Act 1975, in relation to the detainee under which the person is responsible for the detainee's long-term care, welfare and development.

Part 6 - Amendments of Passports Act 1938

43. Item 40 amends subsection 5(5) of the Passports Act 1938 by omitting the phrase "custody order within the meaning of Part VII" and substituting "a child order as defined in section 70F" to reflect the change in terminology in the Family Law Reform Bill 1995.
44. Item 41 substitutes in section 5(5) the reference to section "68" with a reference to section "70G".
45. Item 42 amends the phrase "is entitled to custody, guardianship of, or access to," and substitutes "has caring responsibility (as defined in subsection (8)) for". The purpose of this substitution is to eradicate from the Passports Act 1938 reference to the terms custody, guardianship, access to a minor, and replace those terms with the notion of caring responsibility for a minor which is introduced by the amendments to the Family Law Act 1975.
46. Item 43 amends the terminology in subparagraph 7(2)(c)(ii)(B) to provide that before a minor can be issued with a passport it will be necessary to first obtain the consent of those persons with the caring responsibility for the child, or establish good reasons for the absence of their consent. Effectively the processes under the Passports Act 1938 will remain the same, but the Passports Act 1938 will reflect the terminology introduced by the amendments to the Family Law Act 1975.
47. Item 44 amends section 7A by inserting a new subsection 8 which contains a broad definition of persons who have caring responsibility of the child as including:
 - a person who is a parent of a minor where there are no other orders held in relation to that child;
 - a person who has a residence order in relation to the minor;
 - a person who has a special purpose order in relation to the minor;
 - a person who has a contact order in relation to the minor;
 - a person who is entitled to custody, guardianship of, or access to, the minor under a law of the Commonwealth or of a State or Territory.

The Item also inserts a new subsection 9 which ensures that the terms used in section 7A of the Passports Act 1938 are consistent with the like terms in the Family Law Act 1975. The above list of persons with caring responsibility in relation to a minor does not, however, expand the existing practices of the Passports Act 1938. The amendments only reflect the changes to terminology in the Family Law Act 1975 introduced by the Family Law Reform Bill 1995. It sets out the categories of persons with caring responsibility in order to avoid any confusion.

Part 7 -Amendment of the Social Security Act 1992

48. Items 45 - 55 make amendments to subsections 5(2) and 250(1) of the Social Security Act 1991 to achieve consistency with the new concepts that are being introduced into Part VII of the Family Law Act 1975 by the Family Law Reform Bill 1994. It omits references to "rights" and "control" and replace them, as appropriate, with references to the new concept of legal responsibility for a child's day to day care, welfare and development and to a new type of order that may be made under the Act.

The provisions of the Social Security Act 1991 that are amended deal with the definition of a dependent child who is aged under 16(subsection 5(2)) and with the definition of a SPP(sole parent pension) child (subsection 250(1)).

The amendments are not intended, in any way , to result in any changes to the qualification for, or entitlement to, any social security payments.
